

New National and International IT and Data Privacy Conflict Resolution Institution in Switzerland

A cooperation between the Swiss Chambers' Arbitration Institution (SCAI) and the Institution for IT and Data Dispute Resolution (ITDR)

The Institution for IT and Data Dispute Resolution ITDR, an association established under Swiss law providing IT and legal mediation and arbitration expert services from highly skilled and neutral experts, has set up a dispute resolution procedure based on the arbitration and mediation Rules of the Swiss Chambers' Arbitration Institution (the "Swiss Rules"). It is the first such service in Switzerland focused specifically on IT and data dispute matters.

ITDR cooperates with the Swiss Chambers' Arbitration Institution which has long-time experience in the administration of arbitration and mediation proceedings.

IT projects are complex and can lead to disputes on legal or technical matters. Such disputes are costly, lead to delays in projects and may even block business. Cases pending before state courts may take years until decided. They are expensive.

It is the purpose of ITDR to offer highly professional, fast and affordable procedures for conflict management for all kind of IT and data disputes independently of the amount in dispute and origin of the parties.

To enable a solution or resolve a dispute specific expertise in IT legal matters and technical know-how are necessary. ITDR has compiled lists of IT legal mediators, arbitrators and technical experts. All experts are proven to have a long-standing experience in their fields of expertise.

The ITDR mediation and arbitration rules are based on the Rules of the Swiss Chambers' Arbitration Institution. Therefore, the experience of the Swiss Chambers' Arbitration Institution strongly benefits the new ITDR arbitration and mediation services for national and international cases. Furthermore, the Swiss Chambers' Arbitration Institution works together with ITDR and supports with profound and in-depth knowledge on arbitration and mediation procedure and case handling.

To give further insights on the set-up and the functioning of the ITDR services, ITDR invites you to a launch event taking place on September 8, 2020, 6 pm at Niederer Kraft Frey, Bahnhofstrasse 53, Zurich. Please save the date. A detailed invitation will follow in due course.
